STATE NEWS

Androscoggin.

A team from Perley's Corner, Auburn, said that the fox hounds said to have been shot in that vicinity, were killed in a pasture some miles from there and that they were chasing sheep at the time The folks at Perley's Corner want to see the dogs hunted down but when the dogs get after their sheep it is quite another matter

In Auburn men who known whereof he speaks, says at least a quarter of a million dollars has been expended during the past season in Auburn for building purposes Over sixty private dwelling houses have been built The Auburn Loan and Building Association could have, it is said, loaned $50 000 for building purposes in addition to the large amounts actually done, if it had been forthcoming

Mrs William Young, of Lewiston Corner, Auburn died very suddenly on Monday morning probably with two nights of the hour Mrs Young spent Sunday among the Welsh people in Auburn and Lewiston and left them in excellent She spoke, it possibly as well as ever, Monday morning and was going to begin a Sunday school when she suddenly was stricken down and died almost instantly She was about sixty seven years old

Wood Cheeseman, shoe manufacturer of Auburn, has erected on right of way the carpenter of North Auburn Queens Jubilee and will occupy the entire first floor of the building They will get into their new quarters about the first of January In addition to the accommodations of ladies' shoe shops they will put in a new line of machinery for the making of the Cheeseman Welt Shoe, lately patented This will enable them to employ about fifty operatives in excess of those twenty from the force at present employed

A party of Auburn men headed by H Wesley Hutchins and including Arthur Jordan John F Cobb, Samuel P Merrill M C Dennett and George W Wagg, gave notice of intention to petition the next Legislature for a charter for the water privileges for the purpose of supplying the village, a few years ago, and last spring she donated twenty five dollars toward a receiving tomb in Hillside Cemetery, and four hundred dollars for the fund to keep the grounds in repair

Piscataquis.

The stockholders in the Dexter & Piscataquis Railroad Co, held a meeting in Simpson's Hall, Dover, Saturday Dec 1st J B Meigs, president in the chair Col J S Peaks, chairman of the committee on by-laws, submitted his report which was accepted. Subsequently the by laws were adopted by a stock vote Five hundred and fifty-one shares were represented The directors will at once open the proposals and close the contract for building the road

Penobscot.

The Bath Independent says that near the No Hancock Bridge, Isle of Springs, one Saturday last summer, while Lawyer C N Williams, of Bath, was visiting the latter, workmen, engaged in grading, unearthed the skeleton of an Indian found buried in a sitting posture and bound in clothes like an Egyptian mummy. This was the second skeleton thus far excavated during the progress of the improvements on the island. The second skeleton was promptly captured by a Lewiston physician, who happened to be present at the No Hancock House, and by him taken to the capitol city.

A steamer that arrived at New York, Saturday, from the Mediterranean, reports having passed, on November 26th, in latitude 34 N, longitude 21, the first vessel, schooner T. A. Lambert, abandoned and upon which the crew had been picked up by the steamer, the bark of which had been lost, and the crew, as they supposed, drowned. The Lambert was a coal barge to that port by the Bethlehem Iron Co. She was built at Thomaston, Me., in 1874, and was owned by Lambert & Co., of Philadelphia. She was 1,600 tons burden, and when built cost about $65,000 The Lambert is coal loaded and was bound from Philadelphia to Boston She is partially insured.

Washington.

An important law case, in which Harrington ship owners are interested to the sum of $6 500, has lately been decided favorable to them in the New York Court of Appeals, says the Machias Republican. The case has been in court for two years, and grew out of the sinking of a coal barge in that port by the Bethlehem boat At the time of the disaster the bark engine was being towed to her berth by a steamer and came in collision with the barge which was also in charge of a tug The owners of the barge began a suit for damage sustained and libeled the bark for $6,500. The case was tried in the lower court, and judgment rendered against both claimants The counsel for owners of the steamer moved an appeal, and the case was carried up to the Court of Appeals, where a decision was rendered last week fully exonerating the master of the bark-entine and the steamer which had her in tow from all blame and awarding a full of damages against the tug upon which was in charge of the barge

Battle with White Caps

AN OLD FARMER IS SHOT AND WOUNDED BY THE MASKED MEN

A Chicago dispatch says Hiram Vance, of Paul and Vt boarding house in Washington Boulevard P nearly three weeks had been living at the house of his uncle, Uncle Vance who is near Sedalia, Ohio is pursuit the name of "White Caps" outrages Mr Vance says he had a thrilling experience with the ruffians and was himself roughly handled by them The story as he told it is as follows

I arrived at Uncle's the night of November 1 We made what seemed a short three miles from the station at the depot with a horse and buggy We first retired late hours shortly after midnight Uncle and myself were the only ones awake The rest of the family though awakened by the bells we heavily fastened about and from the noise, concluded that it was all Hallowe'en and continued undisturbed Uncle and I, however, were aroused by a loud knocking at the front door, which read

"We will call on you within ten days"

"My uncle engaged the services of a man named Herwick to watch the premises On the fourth night, he called us and said the White Caps were surrounding the house We arose and dressed hurriedly Arming ourselves, we went to the front window I should judge there were thirty masked horsemen in the yard or near it

"Who are you, and what do you want" asked my uncle

"The foremost horseman replied 'We want you and we are going to have you'

"'All right,' replied the old man, 'come on'

"With that he raised his shot-gun and fired into the middle of the group There was a yell, and a man fell from his horse They picked him up, and all turned and galloped away. In about two hours we heard them returning. We were ready for them We had loaded the guns with small lead-shot, and as they dashed into the yard we did not hesitate to fire at them The volley seemed to rattle them Again they went away. We heard nothing for three days. I supposed they had got enough and would let us alone The third night about ten o'clock we heard a rustle in the leaves and Herwick said I went to see what was the matter. I never thought of White Caps. We had my uncle with us old veteran servant down in the house. We had hardly left the house before I was struck down, and then came a rush of men, all armed with clubs, some on foot, some on horseback. They seemed to be suffering for some violence. They bound us with cords and left carried and half led us to the barn. One of them said to me:

"'You know you are taken if you keep still. We're going to teach Aaron a lesson to keep his tongue still'

"Then he left me, went away. The men left with us took a most severe punishment. Uncle was whipped with a rawhide, and I was struck with clubs. I was left for dead, and they thought I was dead. I was found by my uncle, who had been left for dead. He explained that he did not dare to come out of the house before I was so stiff that it was some time before I could move my limbs My uncle told the story of the assault and how, by the aid of the old servant who loaded the guns he had been able to fire so rapidly Two days before I left my uncle got a letter which said that the White Caps would have revenge if it took all winter I think unless he goes away until the gang had been brought to justice, but the old man said he would fight the battle out from his own castle While I was at my uncle's six neighbors were whipped though in revenge of any disregard of public morals
